captivating Book Fair, providing an array of books of different genres. Both parents and students indulged in exploring and selecting books that piqued their interest, adding a literary dimension to the day's events.

Additionally, the day witnessed two special activities on campus: a thrilling "Space Walk" experience and an awe-inspiring "Robotics Show" which captivated the audience and provided an extra dimension of learning and wonder.

It was a day where the Parent-Teacher Meeting (PTM) provided a valuable opportunity for parents to receive a report on their child's progress and engage in insightful discussions regarding the academic performance. The interactions between teachers, students, and parents were immensely beneficial and served as a platform for mutual growth and understanding.

The convergence of these significant events in a single day was truly remarkable, offering an enriching experience for all involved.
